

The king's crown

The king's crown

Archimedes went to the king and explained that he could tell if the crown was made of lead or gold. First, he weighed the crown to find that it weighed 1650 grams. Then he put the crown in a cylindrical water bath with a radius of 5 cm. The bath rose by 1.1 cm. Was the crown made of gold?