

Photoelectric effect problem

The maximum wavelength for which an electromagnetic wave can eject electrons from a platinum surface is 196 nm. When radiation with a wavelength of 141 nm shines on the surface, what is the maximum speed of the ejected electrons?